

Axitec poly photovoltaic panel

Overview

Are axitec solar panels good?

Their best solar panel, the AXIpremium XL HC BLK, offers solid mid-range performance when compared to other flagship solar panel models. Their warranty is above average, especially if you opt for a model with a 25-year product warranty. Axitec isn't the biggest nor the best brand, but they offer great value for their price.

Who makes axitec solar panels?

Although Axitec doesn't provide clarity on the issue, it appears that they rely on Original Equipment Manufacturers (OEM) - most likely ones based in China - for the production of their panels. Solar energy systems using Axitec solar panels generally cost between $2.00-$2.60 per watt before incentives and rebates.

What are axitec solar modules used for?

AXITEC solar modules are installed worldwide in various applications, including gable roofs, flat roofs, pitched roofs, and ground-mounted systems. Installers and plant operators have trusted the proven performance of AXITEC solar modules for years. AXITEC Energy GmbH & Co. KG Solar Panel Series AXIbiperfect GXQ TS 690-710Wp.

How much do Axitec solar panels cost per watt?

Axitec solar panels generally cost around $0.60-$0.70 per watt. The industry average for solar panels is lower, but $0.60 per watt is a good deal for European panels known for their high quality. Axitec panels have a warranty that slightly exceeds the standards.

Why choose Axitec solar panels?

Axitec is a versatile option for both commercial and residential projects. They offer all-black modules with a more stylish appearance and bifacial modules for up to 25% more production. Additionally, they provide AXIProtect panels for extreme climate conditions. Axitec panels boast low degradation rates.

What is the energy conversion range of axitec panels?

Axitec solar panels have an energy conversion range of 19-20.5%, placing them in the higher end of the list of brands with the most efficient panels. • Diverse product line. Axitec offers panels for all types of applications, commercial or residential projects.
