

Industrial energy storage supplier quotation in Canada 2026

Overview

Who is energy storage Canada?

Energy Storage Canada is the only national voice for energy storage in Canada today. We focus exclusively on energy storage and speak for the entire industry because we represent the full value chain range of energy storage opportunities in our own markets and internationally.

What is the IESO doing with energy storage in Canada?

The IESO is moving forward with the largest procurement of energy storage in Canada, with 739 MW of new capacity slated to connect to the grid by 2026. These storage projects will be accompanied by 586 MW of expansions and upgrades at existing natural gas facilities – providing a cost-effective and timely solution to secure operational flexibility.

What is the fastest growing energy storage technology in Canada?

BESS is the fastest growing energy storage technology in Canada and is also the dominant storage technology in terms of capacity and number of sites. All but four projects proposed to be commissioned by 2030 are battery storage, with two CAES and two PHS projects also proposed.

Will 2024 deliver 100 GWh of energy storage capacity?

In 2023, the global energy storage market nearly tripled, and 2024 is positioned to deliver more than 100 gigawatt hours (GWh) of capacity in a single year for the first time.

How can Canada secure its energy supply chain?

In Canada, part of securing the supply chain includes building partnerships with Indigenous communities to tap into local resources and expertise. A consistent supply of energy storage components will allow Canada to confidently promote its products, technologies, and services in global markets.

What types of energy storage are available in Canada?

There are three main types of energy storage currently commercially available in Canada: Storage is playing an increasingly important role in the electricity system by improving grid reliability and power quality, and by complementing variable renewable energy sources (VRES) like wind and solar.
