Why are international standards important in the photovoltaic industry?

ABSTRACT: International standards play an important role in the Photovoltaic industry. Since PV is such a global industry it is critical that PV products be measured and qualified the same way everywhere in the world. IEC TC82 has developed and published a number of module and component measurement and qualification standards.

What is the domestic solar PV scheme?

The Domestic Solar PV Scheme operates under the Microgeneration Support Scheme (MSS) and provides a grant towards the purchase and installation of a solar PV system for homeowners. This takes the form of a once-off payment to a homeowner based on the installation of products which meet the requirements of the Scheme.

What impact do the standards have on the PV industry?

These standards have limited impact on the PV industry, where the use of plastic is low and the content of REEs in PV modules is almost non-existent (although the dependence is higher in electronic equipment of BoS).

What are the requirements for regulating PV system design and battery function?

First, to regulate system design and battery function: IEC 62124 for stand-alone PV system design recommendations and PV performance evaluation (including battery testing and recovery after periods of low state-of-charge) in a variety of climatic conditions, and IEC 62509 for battery charge controllers.

What are the regulatory levels for photovoltaic systems?

At least three regulatory levels for the production, installation, operation and end of life of photovoltaic systems can be considered. Additionally, the Life Cycle Assessment methodology is also regulated by standards. In this chapter, the three levels are presented.

Where a solar PV module does not enter a building?

Where the circuit from the solar PV modules does not enter the building, this point of automatic isolation must be within 1.5m cable length of the solar PV modules. For ground mounted system the shunt (automatic isolator) must be within 1.5m cable length of the solar PV modules.
