Do Floating photovoltaic systems cause accidents?

Furthermore, despite previous experiments and numerical simulations, accidents have still occurred with floating photovoltaic systems. Fig. 1 shows a 2019 accident involving a floating photovoltaic system in Japan that was caused by a hurricane.

What happened to a 30 MW PV power station?

In 2017, a 30 MW PV power station was invaded by lightning overvoltage, which caused that plenty of bypass diodes was broken down, more than 200 junction boxes of PV module were bulged and even burned due to low open circuit voltage of diodes, and a number of PV-15A fuses were blown out.

Are photovoltaic cells prone to accidental releases of toxic or flammable gases?

We summarize the hazards related to potential accidental releases of toxic or flammable gases used in photovoltaic cell production, and strategies for reducing such risks (e.g., choosing material and process options which inherently have small risks, and preventing accident-initiating events).

Does the photovoltaic industry need a pro-active approach?

The photovoltaic (PV) industry must continue its pro-active approach to prevent accidents and environmental damage, and to sustain PV's inherent environmental, health, and safety (EHS) advantages. This paper presents an overview of EHS issues related to current and emerging PV technologies and gives examples of this pro-active approach.

Do hurricanes affect a Floating photovoltaic system?

The demand for floating photovoltaic system has increased with energy consumption. To consider severe wind conditions caused by fierce hurricanes, numerical simulations were conducted to evaluate the effects of various TIs and angles of attack on the drag and lift forces of a solar panel array.

Does PV installation design influence induced currents from nearby lightning strikes?

Coetzer, K. M. Wiid, P. G. and Rix, A. J. "PV installation design influencing the risk of induced currents from nearby lightning strikes," Proceedings of International Conference on Clean Electrical Power (ICCEP), Otranto, Italy, 204-213 (2019).
