

Rain cover for energy storage container

Overview

What if my storage container suffers from rain or cargo sweat?

If your storage container suffers from damp, and your contents become affected by container rain or cargo sweat, stop it now by simply placing our 100% anhydrous calcium chloride desiccant based Aquadry Pole into the furrows of the steel container to absorb the moisture in the air immediately.

What are the best shipping container roof covers?

If you're in a hurry, my top pick is Storage and Canopy Shipping Container Roof. It's highly durable and easy to install, and it stands against rough weather conditions. Roof covers can be challenging to choose from if you haven't bought one before. For one, they're costly, so you'll want to make the right choice on your first try.

What is a container cover?

This container cover is an economical solution that comes at a reasonable price compared to market options, and its durability is hard to beat. The cover is made of heavy-duty 17-gauge galvanized steel. It's both resistant to corrosion and resilient enough to beat rough weather conditions.

Why do you need a container canopy?

Our smaller storage shelters and larger warehouse structures offer the necessary cover for short-term storage of goods, products or vehicles; or for repairs to plant and machinery. Our container canopies put a roof over your underutilised yard space offering a dry work or storage area whilst also being ideal for keeping stock.

What is a storage & canopy cover made of?

The cover is made of heavy-duty 17-gauge galvanized steel. It's both resistant to corrosion and resilient enough to beat rough weather conditions. Like most similar covers, it's topped off by a PVC vinyl fabric cover. While the Storage and Canopy cover has a 50 mph wind limit, this champ has a 70 mph limit.
