A solar panel contract is an agreement that explains all terms and conditions of several products or services between the homeowner and the solar installer. The contract ensures that everything is agreed upon by both parties in writing. It helps them understand all solar incentives and terms. What is a solar power contract?

A solar contract is a signed agreement between a person and a solar power installation company that clearly outlines every part of the solar panel installation process, including the steps before, during, and after the actual installation, and who is responsible for each.

What is a solar power purchase agreement?

With a solar power purchase agreement (solar PPA), you contract with a solar developer that pays for, installs, and maintains a solar system on your property.

How does a solar energy contract work?

The details of the solar energy contract will differ depending upon how you intend to pay for your solar panel installation. Homeowners who pay for their panels upfront with cash, or through a solar loan, will see something different than someone who signs a solar lease or solar power purchase agreement (PPA).

What should a solar power contract include?

The point of your solar power system is to generate electricity so you can reduce the amount you draw from the utility grid. This section of the contract should outline your average estimated energy production, or how much power your panels can produce. It may also include your annual home electricity consumption before installing solar.

How do I understand my solar power contract?

To understand your solar power contract and make sure you get what you deserve, you can start by learning a few basic terms. Pay special attention to any language that connects you with the installation company, and outlines what you can expect the company to do for you.

What makes a good solar installation contract?

Like most contracts, home solar contracts can be filled with all kinds of terms, language, and details that the average person might not be familiar with. A good solar installation contract is designed to protect both you and your solar provider, so it's important to understand the various sections and what they mean.
