

Solar panels do not require electricity bills

Overview

Can solar panels cover my electricity bill?

With enough solar panels and batteries, it's possible to cover your entire electricity bill, but it's not cost-effective. What's the average electricity bill with solar panels in the UK?

The average electricity bill for a three-bedroom household with a 3.5 kWp system is £236 per year.

What if I don't use my solar panels?

If your solar panels produce electricity you don't use – as the great majority of panels do – you can sign up to a Smart Export Guarantee (SEG) tariff and sell your excess solar energy back to the grid.

How do solar panels affect my electricity bill?

How do solar panels affect your electricity bill?

Solar panels will reduce the amount of energy used on your electricity bill. Your electricity supplier won't tell you how much solar energy you've used in any given month – the overall amount of electricity you've used will simply go down.

Do you have to buy energy if you have solar panels?

While they may be costly to set up in the first place, you'll eventually break even thanks to reduced energy bills - and you'll make money on all the solar energy you don't use, by selling it back to the grid. But if you have solar panels, do you still have to buy energy?

You will, for the simple reason that it isn't sunny every day of the year.

Should you sell your solar panels?

A typical home with solar panels uses 50% of the energy it generates. If you sell the rest through an export scheme, you can cut your electricity bill by more than 60%. So you won't cover all your electricity costs – but you'll usually break even less than halfway through its lifespan.

Do solar panels need direct sunlight?

No. Solar panels don't need direct sunlight to harness energy from sun, they just require some level of daylight in order to generate electricity. That said, the rate at which solar panels generate electricity varies depending on the amount of direct sunlight and the quality, size, number and location of panels in use.
